How to develop effective presentation skills In the classroom

In the seminar, we will reflect on the increasing importance of presentation skills in the classroom and provide suggestions on how to plan/deliver an effective and compelling speech in different public speaking contexts. As a consequence of the new profile and role of 21st century student and teacher, being a confident, polished, effective speaker is not only necessary but well advised in order to communicate clearly and persuasively.

During the meeting, the winning schools, which have taken part in this year Creative Writing Competition, will be announced and details of the awards ceremony will be given.
